

How safe is your walk home?

In 2016,

$36,588.00

worth of computers were stolen in Berkeley.
If you're walking home with your laptop, you could be at risk.

Frequency of 911 calls per hour
(June 2017)

This data was taken from 911 call data from June of 2017.
911 calls spike around sunset and plummet in the morning.

This heatmap shows the locations each call was made from. Notice how the hotspots border the south and east sides of campus. Chances are, your walk home crosses one of these spots.

If you're going to be on campus at night, be sure you're not alone. UC Berkeley provides free services to make your walk home safer.

Bear Walk

Bear Walk is a free student-run service that dispatches community service officers to walk you to your destination. You can book your walker online or call (510)642-WALK at least 15 minutes ahead of time to make a walk request.

Night Shuttle

The Night Safety Shuttle service is a part of Bear Transit that provides free nighttime transit for all. Night shuttles run from 7:30 PM to 3:00 AM. They stop by campus, BART, Clark Kerr, and the residence halls.

Door-to-door

Between 3:00 AM and 6:00 AM, the Night Safety Shuttles provide a door-to-door service. To book a shuttle, call (510)642-9255. The shuttle will drop you off almost anywhere within the service area boundaries.
